

Ray Saint Biography

Ray Saint is President and founder of Positive Focus Incorporated. As a professional speaker, Consultant and trainer, Ray has spent the last 15 years of his life creating and developing leadership and personal development workshops. Ray's programs are based on Personal Development and Self-Maximization skills. Ray's programs are ideally suited for anyone from associations, to corporate management, to education systems. This is because the programs main focuses are on self management. Time management training, service training, sales training and so on, are useless if you do not possess self management skills. To empower individuals with the tools to recognize conflict and solve problems is paramount to leading an effective and successful life. Ray brings his unique background and high level of energy that captivates the audience and creates a positive learning experience.

Prior to creating Positive Focus Inc., Ray was an Executive Protection Specialist, which entailed providing personal protective services to world leaders, executives and dignitaries throughout North America. He has worked for an international clothing firm where he was responsible for the day to day security operations as well as facilitating the safety for up to 5,000 employees. In short, Ray has spent most of his adult life dedicated to the personal safety, security and growth of others.

Currently, Ray is changing the way people think with his keynote presentations "What's your value, the bottom line" and "It's Great to Be You." These keynotes are ideal for Kicking off a conference, convention, or retreat.

Along with traveling the country speaking to others, Ray is the director of Economic Development in his hometown and oversees his martial arts system where he has trained over 10,000 individuals in the leadership traits of self-maximization.
